Dear Nili,

Here's what we have so far. I wanted to wait until I heard from everyone, but we're still waiting on a few - I'll send an updated schedule once I have everything finalized tomorrow. My cell phone over the weekend is 201 396 5476. Call with any questions, anytime.

MONDAY

9:15 - Breakfast at the Carlyle - us

1. 10:00 AM - David Rosenthal of Blue Ryder Press, which is an imprint of Penguin. Was for a long time the publisher and editor-in-chief at Simon & Schuster and before that Random House. He is very interested. He and I go way way way back.

2. 11:15 AM - Bruce Nichols, bringing Lauren Wein. Bruce is the publisher of Harcourt Houghton. I've done a lot of books with him, one or two really big, when he was at Harper Collins. He is a total sweetheart. Very very very interested.

Break for lunch - 12:15 - 2:15

3. 3:15 PM - Alice Mayhew, doyenne of publishing at S&S, does all books political, historical, etc. She may be bringing Jon Karp.

4. 4:15 PM - Tim Bartlett at St. Martin's, who I think has been in touch with Deborah. Sounds unbelievably excited on the phone. Is bringing Sally Richardson, George Witte, and a marketing person.

TUESDAY

5. 11:00 AM - Steve Rubin, probably with Paul Golob, from Holt. I've dealt with them both - they're not my first choice, unless of course they convince us differently.

6. 3:30 PM - Jonathan Jao from HarperCollins. He's bringing Jonathan Burnham (the big boss) and Claire Wachtel. Claire is very interested in all things Israel, but drives Deborah and me crazy.

We're still waiting to hear from John Glusman at Norton and Jonathan Galassi of FSG. I will give everyone prompts and more info pre each meeting. Hope everyone travels safely. Very excited about this.

Best,
Flip

All sounds good. No doubt, Flip will be back in touch by email with whatever details she's got.

Cheers
